The Journeyman's Exam Review class is designed to prepare students for the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulations Journeyman's test. The class provides instructions on the basic calculations and navigation of the National Electrical Code needed to enhance the candidate's prospects for successfully passing the state exam. Class room instruction includes Ohm's Law, box fill, voltage drop, motor circuits, load analyses and conductor ampacity calculations.
Seven practice exams are provided during the eight (8) week class along with practical advice on locating the information in the NEC. The instructor is a Master Electrician and has been teaching for the IEC since 1992.
